Three National Guard units returning this week

NASHVILLE – Three units of the Tennessee Army National Guard will be arriving on U.S. soil this week after a nine-month deployment in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Soldiers of the 251st Military Police Company, headquartered in Bolivar, with detachments in Lexington and Savannah, are expected to arrive Sept. 17-18 at Ft. Dix, New Jersey. They are scheduled to depart Ft. Dix Sept. 23 or 24 for the Guard's Volunteer Training Center in Smyrna where they will undergo out-processing before departing for their hometown armories.

The 124 Guardsmen deployed on December 8, 2007.

National Guard officials emphasize that all arrival dates are subject to last-minute changes.
