National Guard units to arrive home Thursday

NASHVILLE –Tennessee Army National Guard units from Bolivar, Lexington and Savannah will be back home in Tennessee Thursday, Sept. 25, scheduled to arrive by plane at 9 a.m. at the Guard's Army Aviation Support Facility in Smyrna.

They have been deployed for the past nine months in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The West Tennesseans of the 251st Military Police Company will undergo out-processing throughout the day Thursday and are expected to depart shortly before noon Friday for their hometown armories.

National Guard officials emphasize that all arrival dates are subject to last-minute changes.
